

From: Barbara
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/23/02 10:06pm
Subject: Microsoft Settlement

To who this may concern:

Subject:Netscape's antitrust suit against Microsoft

I would like to express my opinion regarding this issue. As a user of both netscape and explorer i find that is is very difficult to obtain a copy of netscape and explorer is auto maticlly there. I personlly perfer the user interface of Netscape over Explorer.

Since Netscape is the most use browser it should come already installed on the PC's along with exploerer. Microsoft already has the opereating systems under wraps it not right for them to have all the peripheral software as well. It seem they want us consumer to forget that there are other products out there. Out of sight out of mind. It would not be hard to allow us the ability to choose. It a real pain to have to down load it from the interenet.

Back when we use DOS it never interfered with the programs it simply allowed us to access them and use them. Now you can't do any thing with out Microsoft strong hold. Its like we are at their mercy - like an "electronic hostage" kept in the dark about anything out there that could be have value.

Barb